Infrastructure

- Roads and Bridges
- Signage/Wayfinding/Branding
- Structures/Amenities
- Partnerships
COLORADO NATIONAL MONUMENT
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
Welcome to the Backcountry Wilderness Area and the Douglas County Regional East-West Trail

This trailhead is your starting point—on foot, bike, or horse—for destinations near and far.

This section of the Douglas County East-West Trail leads you to Coyote Ridge Park. In the future this trail will connect with the East-West Trailhead at Gogs Road and to the Bluffs Regional Park.

One mile up the trail, you will find the Wildcat Mountain Trail System where you can explore 811 miles of the Backcountry Wilderness Area. The Backcountry is an unplanned, well-preserved refuge for native plants and animals. Native grasslands and shrubs make up the majority of the ecosystem which contains elk, does, rabbits, bobcats, and many other species of wildlife.

The Wildcat Mountain Trail System has unique regulations in order to protect the abundant wildlife and natural resources present on the property. Dogs will not be permitted on the trails and there will be seasonal closures. For more information, please go to www.hrcainsite.org
DEDICATED
Spring 1999

This picnic shelter was designed by Richard Floisand, who coordinated the construction for his graduate thesis for the University of Washington School of Architecture.

Volunteers from the climbing community and the University of Washington Departments of Architecture and Landscape Architecture contributed countless hours of hard work to see this project a reality.

With appreciation to:

◆ REI, Inc. ◆

◆ The American Alpine Club◆
◆ Bend Ready Mix◆
◆ Certa ProPainters◆
◆ Laura Potter◆
◆ Pacific Northwest Regional◆ ◆ Council of Carpenters◆
◆ The Oregon State Parks Trust◆
◆ Black Diamond Equipment, LTD◆
◆ Metolius Mountain Products, Inc◆
◆ Bend Ready Mix Concrete Supplies◆
◆ Portland Rock Gym◆
◆ Jeff Reifman◆
◆ Vertical World Climbing Gyms◆